Past performance may not be indicative of future results and there is no assurance that any of the Fund's investment objectives will be met. We have cited common indices used in Canada for general comparison with our fund. However, our fund may not necessarily be representative of the indices used and the volatility of our portfolio may vary substantially compared to these indices for reasons which include, but are not limited to: (i) our fund may hold or have held a larger percentage of small cap securities and a higher concentration in specific securities and industries; (ii) our fund may use short selling and leverage strategies and hold private investments. The S&P 500 Index measures the total return of the broader U.S. economy through changes in the aggregate market value of 500 stocks representing all major industries and assumes reinvestment of dividends. The S&P/TSX Composite Total Return Index measures the total return of the broader Canadian economy through changes in the aggregate market value of stocks and assumes reinvestment of dividends.

Commentary

The Fund posted a gain of 1.5% over the month of May (net of all fees and expenses). The Fund's largest holding was up approximately 13% over the period, which significantly contributed to the Fund's net return. We exited one investment entirely, as we believed a combination of moderate growth and a higher stock price resulted in the company trading at or near fair value.

We have begun allocating capital to a new holding that has what we believe are very attractive prospects and an entrenched business model.

We continue to research a number of exciting potential investment opportunities.
